NORRIS BILL TO BE WITHDRAWN

Good Roads Measure Introduced by Rush County Representative
Arouses Adverse Criticism.

DRAFTED BY A PURDUE MAN

Charge is That Proposed Law Would Operate to Build up Political Machine.

After a rather meteoric career, the good roads measure introduced in the legislature in Indianapolis this week by Representative O. C. Norris of this city, is to be withdrawn so that some vital changes may be made.

The inference is obtained from Indianapolis newspapers that the withdrawal will take place because of the adverse criticism which the bill has aroused. Friends of good roads are fighting the measure because it proposes no direct clause for the bettering of Indiana roads, but is rather, they say, a measure to oil the political machinery of Purdue university.

Further proof of these assertions, good roads advocates declare, is found in the fact that the Federation of Agricultural Associations of the State, of which T. A. Coleman of this city is secretary, met this week and declared in favor of the Norris bill.

The Indianapolis News, in an editorial last night under the heading, "A Bill to Oil Purdue Machinery," criticized the Norris bill very severely. The News says by the provisions of the bill it is difficult to see what is to be done for roads.

In a news story the Indianapolis News picks flaws in Norris' road bill as follows:

The road bill introduced by Representative Norris in the house, which was drafted by Professor G. I. Christie, of Purdue university, and which seeks to have the road work of the State turned over to a commission under the control of Purdue men, is destined to provoke a scrap in the legislature. Some of the friends of good road measures are already "going after" the bill, and assigning various reasons why it should be slaughtered.

Mr. Norris had a conference with Professor Christie and others yesterday, and the bill is to be withdrawn, so that important changes may be made. Mr. Norris says the changes have not been decided on, but that some new and improved ideas will be put into the bill. Those fighting the bill say that entirely new basic ideas will have to be put into the bill before it will be half way acceptable. They are inclined to believe that the revamped bill will contain the same objectionable features that are found in the present bill.

The bill came to Mr. Norris, who lives at Rushville, from T. A. Coleman, of Rushville, who is secretary of the Federation of Agricultural Societies, an adjunct to the Purdue extension department.

The opposition to the bill is based on the grounds that it would create a big political machine for Purdue university men, reaching into the road districts of the State, but would do nothing that would be of any benefit to the roads; and that it provides for spending many perfectly good, hard state dollars for doing experimental work that the federal government is ready and willing to do for Indiana without the expenditure of a cent of the State's money.

The "commission on good roads" provided for in the bill would continue only two years, unless future legislatures made provisions for its further continuance. Two years,

WANT FARMERS INSTITUTE

Ripley Township Men Meet Today
Plan For One.

A number of prominent farmers of Ripley township met with the trustee of the township in Carthage this afternoon to plan ways and means to hold a township farmers institute and to organize a boys' corn club. The meeting was called by Supt. S. B. Walker of the Carthage schools. Posey township farmers are the first to announce an institute in Rush county. It will be held in Arlington Wednesday, January 22.

GIRL CONSTABLE IS FROM LEWISVILLE

Goldie Heathcoe, Who Officiates in Irvington Squire's Court, is Daughter of Simon Heathcoe.

SHE HAS SOME "EXPERIENCE"

Miss Goldie Heathcoe has qualified at Irvington as constable and has been regularly sworn in by the squire in that jurisdiction. About the only other essential step is the presentation of the "big badge" which she seems anxious to get.

It is quite out of the ordinary to see a woman act in the capacity of constable, but Miss Heathcoe is anxious to begin her work and thinks she will make good. Miss Heathcoe has been employed in office of Squire Deel, in Irvington, where she has gained much of her knowledge for her future work. She will be employed in special cases by Irvington justices of the peace and by some of those in Indianapolis, for whom she has already done work.

Miss Heathcoe is the daughter of Simon Heathcoe of Lewisville. Her mother died when she was quite young, and together with her little sisters and brothers, was thrown out into the world. For some years she lived with a family at Spiceland, and was given an education. She is about twenty years of age.

Parcel Post Packages Than Most Cities Larger Than This.

REPORT FOR STATE IS MADE

A comparison of the figures on the first week's business under the operation of the parcel post rate, just made public by the postoffice department at Washington, shows that Rushville held its own. In some cases it did much better than cities larger than it is. The Rushville postoffice handled 534 parcels the first week. Seymour, a city about the same size, handled only 357. Connersville, which is nearly twice as large, dispatched and received only 618. Newcastle handled 640; Shelbyville, 623; Columbus, 795; Greensburg, 472; Franklin, 117.

HAPPY DAYS OF YOUTH RECALLED

Indiana Alumni and Former Students
Enjoy First Banquet at Christian Church Immensely.

TOASTS IN PRAISE OF I. U.

T. M. Green Hopes Day of Niggardly
Appropriations for State School is Past.

Happy days at Indiana university were recalled and toasts were given and songs were sung to their alma mater at the first banquet of alumni, former students and friends of the State school at the Main Street Christian church last night.

Thirty-nine gathered around the banquet tables, which were decorated in crimson and white—the colors of the university—and the presence of flags and college pennants made a beautiful scene. Frank Forry, German instructor in the high school, invoked the divine blessing, and before sitting down to the feast, the banqueters sang:

"Come and join in song together,
Shout with might and main;
Our beloved Alma Mater,
Sound her praise again."

After the delightful four-course dinner had been served, the Rev. W. H. Wylie (1897) pastor of the St. Paul M. E. church, toastmaster of the evening, recounted in a jovial manner his especial fitness for this office, since he was born close to the college campus and in his boyhood days often roamed about the university campus.

Pres. W. L. Bryan's letter to the alumni was read by J. H. Scholl, superintendent of the city schools. The letter was a fine statement of the ideals and needs of the university and called upon all the friends of the school to lend their aid in securing for the school the financial aid necessary to carry out the needs of the people of the State. Pres. Bryan said: "We hold ourselves bound to stand for the ancient tradition of quality in the college, but find ourselves struggling to do this with approximately twice as many students as we had when our mill tax bill was passed ten years ago."

A. L. Gary responded to the subject, "What I Got From I. U." As Gary married an alumnus of I. U., Jessie El Spann, (1904) his subject assigned was very appropriate. But he said that he would not say much about his subject for she always spoke for herself. He paid a very beautiful tribute to Dr. Bryan and several other I. U. professors whom he said he personally knew to be men of sterling worth.

B. F. Miller, a student of Indiana university in the days when "Bro." Spicer had charge of the buildings, spoke very feelingly of the high moral influence of the university and decried the rumor that is sometimes extant. He urged every one to stand by the head of the school system of Indiana and for parents who had children there to visit the school, which has one of the finest campuses in the country.

Ex-Lieut. Governor F. J. Hall, (1867) spoke of the old days and the fine influence of the honored professors Owen, Wiley, Kirkwood, Atwater. He declared the money appropriated to the State university was not a drain upon the public treasury but a debt that the State should gladly give since the blessings in return to the commonwealth was beyond estimation. Mr. Hall is a staunch friend, as was shown by

FLATROCK GOES ON A CAROUSAL

Rush County's Stream Leaves Its Bed And is Nipped by Sudden Cold Wave.

BEGINS TO RECEDE TODAY

Rushville People Glad to Get a Glimpse of the Sun Again
Today.

While cities in the Indiana "pocket" have been threatened with being washed away, Flatrock, Rush county's majestic stream, has been flowing demurely on as if J. Plavious were not on the job. But when Flatrock is aroused, it's best to keep a look-out ahead.

Flatrock is aroused—but it seems that the overflowing river is going to run a short course. The cold weather is going to nip Flatrock's carousal in the bud. Just when the old stream gets thoroughly full and begins to bubble over, along comes a cold wave and spoils all the fun.

The temperature fell fifteen degrees today and people felt some relief from the hot weather—that is hot for this season. The prediction for tomorrow is continued cold, if not colder, and clear skies. Today was the first time the sun has shone since Monday, and previous to that it had appeared to people of Rushville only once in a week.

The water is so high between the race and the river and west of Main street that it would require very little trouble to drown. All that one would need to do would be jump in. The water is surging along there in torrents and threatening to tear up by the roots some trees that have been standing there for years.

The river is out of its banks all along, but it is probably at its worst west of Main street. The main body of the stream appears to have left the river bed just west of the white covered bridge in Main streets. That accounts for the high water back of the Adams produce company. It is quite probable that if conditions were as of yore when Flatrock was on a rampage, the water would be across Main street. A few years back the street between the race and the river was made higher and a cement bridge was built.

If Manager Frank Maibaugh were signing some players for the ball team, they would probably require that lifesavers be thrown in with the contract because the ball diamonds is under water. A person could almost take a good swim where the infield was located. The water is up under the grandstand.

Flatrock just began to leave its original course last night and this afternoon it had begun to recede. With clear cold weather and a cessation of the rain, it is believed the river will soon be back in its banks.

DECISION NEXT SATURDAY

Verdict in Seward Case Will be Given Then.

After hearing the argument in the Seward saloon case yesterday, Judge Sample of the Hancock circuit court announce he would give his decision next Saturday. The original case, an appeal from the commissioners court asking for a renewal of Seward's liquor license, was the one heard yesterday. The case was sent to Hancock county on a change of venue by Judge Blair.

JAMES WIKOFF IS CALLED BY DEATH

Well Known Aged Resident of Falmouth Succumbs After Illness of Two Months.

FUNERAL MONDAY MORNING

James Wikoff, 86 years old, a prominent resident of Falmouth, died this morning at 10:30 o'clock at his home there after an illness of two months. Mr. Wikoff had been suffering from a nervous breakdown and on account of his advanced age death was expected. He had lived in Falmouth, most of his life and was well known. His wife died last May and he is survived by an adopted son, Harley Wikoff and one brother, John Wikoff and two sisters, Mrs. Ida McCrory and Mrs. Ella Benson.

The funeral services will be held Monday morning at ten o'clock in the Fairview church. Burial will take place in the church cemetery.

NEW SCHEDULE GOES IN EFFECT SUNDAY

Some Important Changes are Made in
I. & C. Time Card Recently Announced.

THE THEATER CAR IS LEFT ON.

The announced change in the time on the I. & C. traction line will take place tomorrow. The west bound dispatches will leave here at the same time—9:04 in the morning and 5:04 in the evening. The east bound dispatches will leave an hour later—10:06 in the morning and 6:06 in the evening. The car for theatregoers, which leaves Indianapolis at 11:30 at night, is left on.

As is the case on the old schedule cars will leave Indianapolis on the hour, and all east bound cars, beginning at 7 o'clock in the evening, will run on limited time and make local stops. The 7:09 and 11:00 o'clock west bound cars at night will be locals running on limited time, but the 7:37 and 9:37 will run on local time.

East bound limited trains will leave twenty minutes after the even hours and local trains the same direction will leave forty-two minutes after the odd hours. West bound limited trains will leave fifty-nine minutes after the even hours and locals the same direction will leave thirty-seven minutes after the odd hours.

WEATHER.

Fair, colder tonight. Sunday fair. Colder central and east portion.

BROKEN WHEEL DERAILS FLYER

Chicago Train on Big Four Leaves
Track Near Brookfield, Shelby County.

RUNNING 50 MILES AN HOUR

Passengers Have Miraculous Escape
From Injury—Trains Are Detoured Through Here.

Big Four train No. 35, known as the Chicago flyer, was derailed at Brookfield, Shelby county, at 2:30 this morning by a broken wheel, but no one was hurt.

The train was running fifty miles an hour when one of the wheels under the locomotive tender gave way. The engine remained on the track, but all the nine cars, four sleepers, three day coaches and two baggage cars, left the rails. None of the cars turned over, though several were tilted slightly when they came to a stop on the ties.

Passengers say it is remarkable that no one was injured. All the occupants of the train were severely jolted, and there was considerable alarm until it was found the cars merely wobbled and did not turn over.

A relief train from Indianapolis was sent to the scene and a number of Indianapolis and Fairland physicians were dispatched to Brookfield, but their services were not required.

Trains are running by way of the Cincinnati, Hamilton & Dayton road and Michigan division of the Big Four and sent through here to Greensburg, where they got back on the main line. The rails were spread ten feet apart in some places.

TO MAKE COUNTY PAY COURT EXPENSE

Bill in Legislature is in Line With Recent Suggestion of Gov.
Ralston.

IS PAID BY THE STATE NOW

A bill has been introduced in the upper house of the legislature which is in session in Indianapolis providing that each county shall pay the expenses of its own circuit court. Under present system the expense of all circuit courts are paid out of the State treasury. Governor Ralston, in a speech before the Shelby County Bar association one night this week, suggested legislation along this line.

Senator Stotsenburg, who introduced the bill, took the matter up with Governor Ralston several days ago and found the latter approved of the proposed measure. He said that counties would not be so free to apply for a separate circuit if they had to stand the expense.

A LIVE CORPSE.

Muncie Press: The Cincinnati Enquirer, which prints the obituary of the Republican party every two or three weeks has buried it again. On the same day three Republican United States senators were elected, Smith of Michigan, Borah of Idaho and Weeks of Massachusetts, while in Maine the separate voting of the two houses of the legislature showed a majority of seven for Burleigh, republican. These men were elected to serve until 1919.

TWO MONEY KINGS CONTROL ALL WEALTH OF UNITED STATES

George F. Baker Is Newly Discovered Coruler of Finances.

He Shares Reign Over Millions With Morgan --- Great Power They Wield.

THAT two men virtually dominate the finances of the United States, practically creating what has popularly become known as a money trust, was the startling but nevertheless truthful conviction forced upon the people by the testimony of George F. Baker before the Pujio congressional committee at Washington recently. One of the men who control our money is Mr. Baker himself. The other is J. Pierpont Morgan. The name of Mr. Morgan is known to every child in the country almost as soon as he can speak. He has been made the subject of popular verse and song.

But not so with Mr. Baker. He has managed to successfully keep out of the limelight until now. He can buy and sell the ordinary millionaire who bursts into print every time he makes a financial coup. As a matter of fact Mr. Baker is now looked upon as one of the four richest men in the United States.

Was Once Bank Clerk.

There are many men in Wall street who remember George F. Baker when he was a clerk in the bank that he now virtually owns. Not the least amazing thing about his interesting career is that he has been able to climb so high without attracting any especial attention or making any undue noise about it. He is a man of silence. And, as the Pujio investigation brought out, next to Morgan he is the greatest man in Wall street. Few persons among the general public realize the real power of this inconspicuous individual, but it develops that he is one of the biggest figures in the coal fields and in banking. In the fields of transportation, insurance, rubber and innumerable other great industries he is a commanding force.

J. P. MORGAN.

Quietly, silently, unobtrusively, he has gone ahead year after year with never a backward step. He has trampled on no one. He has made no enemies, aroused no antagonisms. His name has appeared rarely in the newspapers. He has money enough to buy out all the Lawsons, Gaseses, Pattens and the rest of the crowd who shoot off skyrockets every time they buy or sell a few bushels of grain or cotton on a margin. Nobody has heard of Baker buying any stock, but when one comes to look over the list of the big American properties printed in connection with this article he finds the owners to be Mr. Morgan and Mr. Baker.

Most Silent Millionaire.

Those who know George F. Baker and have a fair idea of the power he wields do not hesitate to say that he is an "irresistible force" and the most silent among all the great millionaires. Now and then some one sees him on the street "engaged in conversation" with some one. That means that the other man is doing all the talking and that Baker is listening. It is said that a visitor once spent six weeks at Mr. Baker's summer home at Tuxedo and never heard him speak a word in all that time. A nod or gesture was his usual expression of greeting or gratification.

Mr. Baker worked up from a clerk in the First National bank, which he now controls. It was when he was cashier that the opportunity of his life came. He grasped it instantly and turned defeat into victory. His assistant had made an error in judgment for which Baker would also be held responsible. They stood shoulder to shoulder and personally assumed the prospective loss. And instead of being dismissed they laid the foundations of their fortune.

Story of His Rise.

As the story goes, John Thompson the originator of the national banking system, was the president of the First National bank in those days. The relations between the bank and the government were close, and to the bank was entrusted the buying of all foreign exchange that the government needed to pay the interest on its bonds abroad. Henry Fahnstock, now one of the First National's chief officers, was Baker's assistant as cashier and had charge of buying the exchange.

One day Fahnstock, as an act of kindness to a friend, bought some big drafts on London for the government from the banking house of Jay Cooke & Co. Baker approved the purchase, for Cooke was considered absolutely sound financially. A few days later Cooke failed sensationally and disastrously. Cashier Baker and his assistant were much concerned, not only on account of the money involved, but because of the severe criticism and probable dismissal that might follow from Mr. Thompson.

"It looks as though we would have to buy the bank to save ourselves," said Baker in talking the matter over with Fahnstock.

Then with this determination they went to President Thompson and made a proposition to him that staggered him at first. They knew that he wanted to retire from active management, that he felt that his work was done and that he wanted to be relieved of some of the heavy load of responsibility that he had borne for many years. They were young, vigorous and ambitious. They proposed that he sell them enough of his stock to entitle them to exercise control and that if he would retain the presidency of the bank for six months they would purchase it at a certain figure. They did not have much money, but they had the courage to believe in themselves. What they practically did was to get from President Thompson a six months' option on the shares of the bank, for which they negotiated.

Buys Out President.

The old gentleman had a high admiration for the two young men. He knew them for their worth, for their application, for their grasp of affairs, their knowledge of men and of banking. He was weary of his long years of labor, and he accepted their proposal and gave the young men a chance. The next six months were very busy ones indeed. Baker and Fahnstock had to get out and scurry around to get backing to buy the stock. They succeeded, and when the half year was up they obtained control. Today these two men are the same friends that they were when they were bank clerks together. They occupy the same box at the opera. All through life they have gone along side by side. Baker has climbed higher in financial power, though Fahnstock is many times a millionaire. How vast George F. Baker's fortune is no one but himself knows.

All these things considered it isn't any wonder that Mr. Baker made the whole country sit up and take notice when he took the stand before the Pujio committee. He virtually admitted that he and J. Pierpont Morgan constituted power equivalent to a money trust and that the country might be wrecked if this vast power fell into the hands of "ambitious men."

He Discusses His Power.

Here is one bit of interesting testimony by Mr. Baker:

"Will you name a single transaction in the last ten years of over $10,000,000 in amount which has been financed without the participation of Messrs. Morgan & Co. or the First National bank or the City bank or Kuhn, Loeb & Co., or Speyer & Co. or Lee, Higginson & Co. or Kidder, Peabody & Co. of Boston and the First National bank and the Illinois Trust and Savings bank of Chicago. [All of these houses are associated with Mr. Morgan and Mr. Baker.] Take the whole range of transactions and point to a single one that has been financed without the co-

ANOTHER STUDY OF MR. BAKER.

and over that has been financed in the United States without the co-operation of some one of the houses I have named?"

"No, sir," replied Mr. Baker.

Regarding the concentration of money power Mr. Baker said:

"I suppose you would see no harm, would you, in having the control of credit as represented by the control of banks and trust companies still further concentrated? Do you think that would be dangerous?"

"I think it has gone about far enough."

"You think it would be dangerous to go further?"

"It might not be dangerous, but still it has gone about far enough. In good hands I do not see that it would do any harm. If it got into bad hands it would be very bad."

"If it got into bad hands it would wreck the country?"

"Yes, but I do not believe it would get into bad hands."

Mr. Baker was very frank in admitting that it wasn't an enviable situation for a country to be in.

How Wealth Is Dominated.

Here are seven painful but truthful facts which stand out strongly in the testimony of Mr. Baker before the committee:

First.—That no great enterprise can go forward successfully in this country unless the men at the helm have the confidence of J. P. Morgan and his associates.

Second.—That the financial situation in this country today is subject entirely to the power of a few men.

Third.—That these men are the arbiters of what is right and good for the remaining 90,000,000 and that their judgment must be accepted because not even the government is strong enough to cope with them.

Fourth.—That competition is a thing that may exist among large enterprises, subject again to the judgment of the money masters.

Fifth.—That the great system of interlocking directorates extends over all the major industries and that competition may be killed without interference from the law.

Sixth.—That Morgan and his associates have handled every bond issue of more than $10,000,000 in the last decade and that these bond issues carry the right of control.

Seventh.—That the ethics of banking preclude a bank from financing a concern that would interfere with the concerns that it has already

FARMERS' CONGRESS HAS BIG PLANS FOR FUTURE.

Executive Committee Maps Program. To Be Greatest of Its Kind.

At a recent meeting of the executive committee of the farmers' national congress tentative plans were formulated for completing the organization of that body under its new constitution. At the annual meeting in November, 1912, at New Orleans this association was reorganized with a view to developing it at once into the greatest agricultural society and the greatest country life federation in the world.

It is proposed to develop a national agricultural society to which all farmers may belong and to which all state, interstate and national associations, institutions and departments devoted to country life will adhere and in which they will be represented by delegates. It is not to take the place of any existing organization, but part of its work will be to build up all constituent organizations and to deal with only general questions of national scope relating to farming and farm home making. It is expected that there will be 700 delegates representing farmers of the different states and 2,000 delegates representing the societies of agriculture, horticulture, live stock, women's clubs, agricultural colleges, experiment stations, departments of agriculture and similar institutions.

The possibility of this becoming a farmers' trust is prevented by including state and governmental institutions and departments, which find it necessary to be nonpartisan that they may do their work under the different political parties successively in favor. It is not so much an organization for economic interests as it is a general country life welfare organization. As the nation's great agricultural society the new constitution provides that it may conduct a national fair and may issue reports and other publications of nation wide interest and scope.

SPURIOUS MONEY IS FOUND.

Flynn Sends Out Warning—Bad Ten and Twenty Dollar Bills Passed.

In spite of repeated warnings from Washington and numerous recent convictions of counterfeiters in various parts of the country, New York and other cities are still flooded with spurious money. A large amount was passed among New York merchants during the rush of holiday shopping, and the banks have been kept busy stamping the bills counterfeit and turning them in to the subtreasury.

Secret Service Chief Flynn's first warning from his new office came from Washington and told of a new twenty dollar gold certificate which his men are finding in various parts of the country. W. H. Moran, who was acting head of the service before Flynn went to Washington, sent out a warning a few weeks ago of another twenty dollar bill, the maker of which operatives are trying hard to find.

That a large number of bad ten dollar gold certificates, whose circulation is now made public for the first time, have been passed in New York was shown by the number of them which a reporter found had been foisted on bankers and business men.

Invents "Painless" Hatpin.

Mrs. C. A. Blessing, Jr., of Philadelphia believes she has found a way to eradicate the danger that comes from using long hatpins in women's hats. It is an invention of her own, and she calls it "the cushioned hatpin." The cushion fits on the pointed end and is made to resemble the handle of the pin.

BASKET BALL.

In a practice game Wednesday night the High School defeated the second team from Gings, 30 to 11. The first half ended 13 to 6 in favor of Rushville.

The game was interesting although the locals did not play as good a game as was expected.

The Gings first team will play another game here Wednesday evening after school. The line up is as follows:

Rushville—McDonald, Cameron, Hinkle, forwards; Webb (c) center; Roam, Griffin, guards.

Gings—Bell, Peters, forwards; Hall, center; Shortridge, Foster, guards.

Field Goals—Bell 1, Peters 1, Hall 2, McDonald 6, Cameron 1, Hinkle 1, Webb 4.

Foul—Bell 2, Shortridge 1, Griffin 6.

ORGANIZATIONS.

The American History class had a debate Thursday morning. The question was "Resolved, That the U. S. Senators Should be Elected by Popular Vote." Both teams brought out good reasons for their cause. The negatives won the debate. The teams were as follows: Affirmatives: Mary Carr, Ruby Daubenspeck, Edith Hogsett and Pauline Felts. The Negative team was composed of Weldon Brann, Josephine Kelly, Louis Hiner and Glass Darnell.

The H. S. orchestra will meet next Sunday afternoon at the home of Paul McMahan, 411 West Second street. A full attendance is desired.

The final examinations will be held next Tuesday and Wednesday. The next term will begin on the following Monday.

Hints for Housekeepers.

NATIONAL CAPITAL IS SICK AT HEART

Plans for Inaugural Turned Topsy Turvey.

Washington, Jan. 18.—The abandonment of the inaugural ball has followed Woodrow Wilson's letter to William C. Eustis of the inaugural committee, and probably it will effect other radical curtailments of the plans for the Democratic inauguration. Resident Washington, which has invariably had charge of these quadrennial affairs without interference on the part of the central figure in the ceremony, has been saddled with the old town with the national colors and red fire on March 4, but the managers sadly admit today that Governor Wilson's insistence on the abandonment of the inaugural ball knocks the traditional plans into a cocked hat.

President Elect Wilson, having decided that this inauguration shall be minus a ball, the men in charge of the arrangements for the affair of March 4 are at a loss as to what course they shall pursue.

The merchants in Washington are stunned. They put up their money for the prospective inauguration as they have in the past, on the theory that they would be reimbursed and that the forthcoming ceremony would be conducted on a scale that would attract the multitudes that have come here in former years.

Resident Washington is sick at heart. The inauguration period has always given play to its vanities, and in addition there were possibilities of making money that could not be overlooked.

GIVEN A LIFE SENTENCE

Hooper Convicted by Jury of Murder of Two Men.

Sullivan, Ind., Jan. 18.—The jury in circuit court returned a verdict of guilty in the case of Frank Hooper, charged with murdering John Gaither, former town marshal of Bicknell, and Zay Dant, a farmer, in the saloon of Chris Moroska at Bicknell, April 30, 1912, and fixed his punishment at imprisonment in the state prison for life. The defense will file a motion for a new trial.

Robbed of $1,100 in Daylight.

Hammond, Ind., Jan. 18.—In a bold daylight holdup, Murray Franklin was assaulted and robbed of $1,100 here. He was on his way to the Goshen Shirt company, at Hammond, with a payroll.

Cut the High Cost of Living.

W. H. Chapman, Winnebago, Neb., tells how he did it. "My two children had a very bad cough and the doctor's medicines did them no good. I got a bottle of Foley's Honey and Tar Compound, and before it was all used the children were free and cured of their cough. I saved a doctor's bill for one 25c bottle of Foley's Honey and Tar Compound." No opiates. F. B. Johnson and Co. (Advertisement.)

Escaped After Fifteen Years.

W. P. Broyles made a successful escape after fifteen years of suffering from kidney and bladder troubles. Foley Kidney Pills released him and will do just the same for others. He says: "They cured a most severe backache with painful bladder irregularities, and they do all you claim for them. Refuse substitutes. F. B. Johnson and Company. (Advertisement.)"

EDUCATORS TAKE UP THE CUDGELS

Teachers' Minimum Wage Law Is In Danger.

BILL IS SLATED FOR DEATH

Storm of Opposition Which Has Been Created by Movement Practically to Repeal Statute For Which Teachers of Indiana Put Up So Effective a Fight Four Years Ago Has Weight With Hoosier Legislators.

Indianapolis, Jan. 18.—Led by certain of the educational interests of the state, a fight is being made against the bill introduced by Senator Ballou to repeal, in effect, the teachers' minimum wage law. This bill proposes to abolish that provision which makes it a crime for a township trustee to hire a teacher at less than a certain wage fixed by law. It is understood the bill is slated for death in the senate committee on education. Senator Ballou says this law has worked a hardship in many townships of the state because of the fact that it provides a definite minimum wage. In many places, he says, trustees have been inclined to make the minimum the maximum wage law. It is pointed out that this is nearly always the case when an attempt is made by law to establish a minimum wage rate in any line of service. Senator Ballou also has introduced a bill providing for the election of county school superintendents by the people.

A bill that seeks to say "good-by" to the roller towel, the short bed sheet, stale bed linen and the common drinking cup, as well as to provide for a system of inspection of hotels, office buildings and the like, will be introduced in the house by Representative Adam of Indianapolis. Adam is a traveling salesman. He says he has consulted the laws of Illinois and Nebraska, and has taken parts of his bill from statutes in force in those states. The governor, under the proposed bill, would appoint a hotel inspector to hold office for two years, at an annual salary not to exceed $2,000.

On the theory that the supreme court of the state will give the city of Indianapolis a clear title to the old Arsenal grounds and buildings in East Michigan street, formerly occupied by the Technical Institute, Representative Keegan has presented the Indianapolis school board's bill to the legislature providing for the establishment by the city of a vocational and trades school there. The bill authorizes a bond issue of $300,000 for trade schools and manual training purposes.

New Registration Bill.

A bill for the registration of voters, which is meant to simplify the present registration system and make it less expensive, was introduced in the senate by Senator Glenn Van Auker of Auburn. The indorsement of Governor Marshall has been given to the bill, as it was prepared with his knowledge after Attorney Henry Warrum and W. H. Thompson had made an investigation of the present law and its operation. The main feature of this bill is its provision that a general registration of voters shall take place only once every eight years instead of in every year of a general election, as under the present law. Except in city elections, a voter who does not move from his precinct will not have to register more than once in eight years. In most other respects the bill follows closely the present law.

Representative Patton of Bedford has introduced in the house a bill which seeks to raise the amount of mortgage exemption from $700, as now provided, to $1,200. The bill also provides that any person holding under a contract of purchase and making periodical payments on property and paying the taxes thereon, shall be entitled to the same exemption, but in this case the owner of the property shall not be entitled to any exemption. All taxes allowed by the exemption in such case, the Patton bill provides, shall be credited to the person holding under a contract to purchase.

Manufacturers Fighting It.

The Indiana Manufacturers and Shippers association has begun a fight against the bills in the house which provide for an eight-hour work day for women. At a meeting of this association here views were expressed that this bill would practically ruin many laundries, overall and shirtwaist factories, confectionaries and department stores, whose employees are principally women, and, therefore, would come within the provisions of the bills.

The Indiana Forestry association bill has been introduced by Senator Sullivan of Marion county, in the senate. It provides for the organization of forestry associations throughout Indiana for the purpose of establishing and maintaining forests. Charles W. Fairbanks is president of the Indiana Forestry association, and the bill was prepared under his direction.

It will be necessary for all persons carrying revolvers to obtain permission to do so from the judge of the circuit court, if a bill which has been prepared by Senator Kolsem of Terre Haute becomes a law. This bill will provide that all dealers in weapons must obtain licenses and keep accurate records of the names and addresses of all purchasers of revolvers.

It is No Trouble to Buy an Article at a Cheap Price

if you are satisfied with a cheap article, but if you want an article that is made right, by honest workmen and out of good material it is a proposition to buy that article at a price that represents its lowest true value. We know that we have bought our Storm buggies at a price that represents the smallest possible cost that a storm buggy of the best grade can be built for. We have done this by buying in large quantities from manufacturers who have every facility for building vehicles at a low cost. This places us in a position to sell you a vehicle at the right price and we do it. We guarantee every vehicle we sell to be right in every respect. Give us a chance and we will make you like our vehicles.

Redeeming Waste Places.

A visitor familiar with the desert regions of Egypt and Arabia, and what has been done to redeem them, has been visiting the arid districts of Southern California, Nevada, Arizona and New Mexico, and has no doubt that they will become highly productive if the right policy is adopted. The progress of irrigation projects, public and private, is in itself an object lesson, though the results as yet are but in the opening stages.

There are no desert places in this country except where the land has been exhausted by bad cultivation, and the wornout fields can be restored by proper management. Means to increase production are a subject on which all sensible parties can agree. To this end the congresses of the last sixteen years have contributed much, and the labors of the Agricultural Department during the same time have never been surpassed in any government.

Secretary Wilson, soon to retire, should write a history of this remarkable era of agricultural development. He knows more than any other man of how it was brought about, what has been done, and what is most needed now.

But it is not necessary to deal with this subject from the standpoint alone of deserts to be watered and everglades to be drained. Everyone of the forty-eight states should look to the redemption of its waste places and the strengthening of intensive methods of farming.

Indiana's legislature is in session now. This State has many acres of wet lands that could be made fertile

Sam Sanderson Says:

That some real work is being done in the colleges this winter is indicated by the amount of attention given to the selection of coaches of baseball teams.

when drained.

It needs roads, especially along the many rural mail routes, whose service has just been broadened in carrying parcels to and from the farms.

Gov. Wilson must have felt relieved when the electors really voted him in president, Monday, but perhaps he won't feel quite sure of the result until Congress counts the vote Feb. 12.

Considering the way they steal the Standard Oil letters it would seem advisable for John D. to keep the company's correspondence in his inside vest pocket.

Is the time going by when the trusts could get incorporated in New Jersey by mailing up a business card on the side of a barn?

Deadlocks exist in several states over the senatorships, but Billy Lorimer's friends can tell a thing or two on how to end them.

The Princess will show a feature Vitagraph "The Face or the Voice" for the first picture tonight. Maurice Costello, Florence Turner and Leal Baird, three well known stars are shown in this picture. "An Accidental Millionaire" is the title of a Lubin comedy.

William A. Brady's production of "Bought and Paid For" by George Broadhurst is to be the attraction at the Shubert Murat theater for one week, commencing Monday, January twentieth. The management could not have made a better selection for this time. "Bought and Paid For" was the one big success in the crop of new plays in New York last year, and achieved the remarkable record, for these days, of over five hundred consecutive performances at William A. Brady's Playhouse. A play that not only can, but does run an entire season and then brave the heat of Broadway to a succession of big audiences surely has something to guarantee its entertaining qualities.

"Bought and Paid For" has all the elements of a popular success, sentiment, drama and fun, and plenty of the latter. It is substantial in fibre, consistent in story, strong in interest, and fresh and natural no less in the drawing of its characters than in the flow of its dialogue.

The play is in four acts, the scenes of which are laid in New York City at the present time. The story, briefly, concerns the marriage of Virginia Blaine, a ten dollar a week telephone operator to Robert Stafford, millionaire and man about town, their subsequent separation as the result of the husband's over-indulgence in drink, and their final reunion through the power of love, and a little side aid from a scheming brother-in-law. The story, told by Mr. Broadhurst, author of "The Man of the Hour" and several other good plays, teems with interest through the acts with an equal sprinkling of laughter and wet handkerchiefs. "Bought and Paid For" is a play for those who are married, or expect to be.

This will be the first time of this remarkable successful play here and the announcement of the engagement has created unusual interest. There will be matinees on Wednesday and Saturday. Mail orders will receive prompt attention.

DIVORCE SUIT DISMISSED.

A suit for divorce filed some time ago by Hamer Foster was dismissed Wednesday on motion of Foster's attorneys, Tremain & Turner in Greensburg. Foster recently was sent to Madison following an inquest into his sanity. He was held on a charge of stealing chickens, which he sold to a Milroy merchant.

Prof. L. B. Smelser will give a lecture on the "Real Philippino," at the Big Flatrock church, Jan. 29. Mr. Smelser spent two and a half years in the Islands and is qualified to give an instructive and interesting lecture.

JAKE FINKELSTEIN

Terre Haute Man, Known Here,
Wants to Give Goose to Ralston Also.

WATSON CALLS ON GOVERNOR

Jake Finkelstein, of Terre Haute, hero of the goose episode, which was staged in Washington, D. C., with President William Howard Taft as the other half of the sketch, some time ago, is to bring a big goose to Governor Ralston in the next few weeks, if he keeps his word, given to the executive yesterday, says the Indianapolis News.

The goose is to be "anything but a Bull Moose goose," Finkelstein told the Governor, and will be a big white gander if such an "animal" may be found.

Finkelstein with James E. Watson, of Rushville; E. P. Thayer and his son, George Thayer, of Greenfield, and David E. Henry, of Terre Haute, appeared at the Governor's offices in the statehouse, yesterday afternoon, to pay their "Republican respects" to the executive. They were received by Governor Ralston in his private office.

It's Funny

How minds will differ. It would be absolutely impractical to pave the city with gold bricks, is the statement of mine made to me and he gave this reason:

Hoboes from all over the country would come here and extract them as they needed them and it would keep our streets torn up almost all the time.

What method do you think could be devised to remedy this condition?

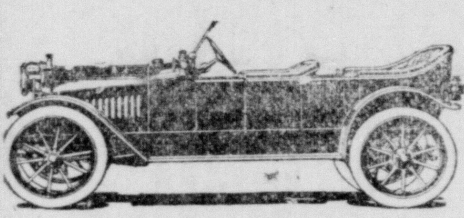

I am open for suggestions.

He Comes Up Smiling

By Charles Sherman

They stopped that evening at a small town in the north of Vermont, as far from a railway and telegraph office as Bartlett could bring them. He had watched Batchelor carefully for signs of restlessness, but the young man appeared absorbed in the present, with no thought for anything but the moment and Billy and Henrietta.

After supper, they loitered a while on the porch. The night was dark and warm. Across the road and over the fields, the frogs in a distant pond were croaking, and the air was thick with fireflies.

"Isn't it dark and still," said Billy, her hands thrust into the pockets of her linen coat, her feet slightly parted, as a boy would stand, her small head thrown back.

The Watermelon watched her covertly from the cigarette he was rolling, the clear oval of her dainty profile, her slender throat and well-shaped head with its coronet of braids.

"Dark as misery," said Henrietta dreamily.

"In the day, one sees a world," quoted Bartlett, standing beside her where she leaned, a slender figure, against the post of the porch. "In the night one sees a universe," and he waved his lighted cigar vaguely toward the myriads of stars above them.

"What good does that do," asked the Watermelon, "seeing a universe? It's miles away and can't help you any."

"You have no beauty in your soul," declared Henrietta. "I think the idea is beautiful, seeing a universe."

"When you are down and out, you don't take any pleasure in looking at a universe," said the Watermelon. "A dollar, or even a quarter, will look a darned sight more beautiful."

"I wouldn't like to be poor," said Billy. "It must be so terrible to have no motor-car, for one thing."

"It is," agreed the Watermelon, who would have agreed to anything Billy said. "It's simply awful."

"What did you mind most?" asked Billy, "when you were a newsboy?"

"Let's go look at the universe," suggested the Watermelon hastily. "We can see it much better down the road a bit."

Billy consented, and they strolled away in the dark. The general, who thought he was talking politics, was laying down the law to the hotel clerk, and Henrietta and Bartlett were left alone. They lingered a moment on the porch and then quietly disappeared up the road in the opposite direction from that taken by Billy and the Watermelon.

Bartlett's desire was to reach Maine as soon as possible and get lost over saturday, but to avoid every city and larger town on the way and to hurry by the smaller places where there might be telegraph or telephone connections.

"Out of touch of the world for a week," he was fond of repeating, "no letters, no papers, no worries and no nerves."

And his desire was the Watermelon's. The more they avoided towns, the better the youth liked it. Telegraph and telephone stations were zealously shunned. He would have liked to have seen a paper, so as to judge what the police thought in the case of the theft of the wealthy young stockbroker's car, provided Batchelor had allowed the thing to become public, which he very much doubted, from the little he knew of the man's character. It was hardly an episode one would care to see in print if one was dignified and self-made. And the Watermelon chuckled.

It took them longer than Bartlett hoped, sticking to narrow, unused country roads, and the next night found them still in Vermont. They spent the night at the village boarding house, and once again Billy and the Watermelon went down the road a bit to look at the universe, and Henrietta and Bartlett went up the road.

The following day, to Bartlett's satisfaction, they got lost. It was late in the afternoon when they stopped at Milford, a small town in New Hampshire, and made inquiries about the next town. Was it far and would the accommodations be good? It wasn't far, the farmer whom they questioned, assured them, only five miles. He directed them how to go and they thanked him and pushed on.

They went on and on and nightfall found them in a lonely bit of wooded road apparently miles from any town or habitation. Bartlett was pleased. They were lost, and by great good luck they might remain lost for a considerable length of time. The general, too, was delighted. They would make a night of it. The lunch basket had been filled earlier in the day at a country store, so there would be enough to eat. The seats of the autos were soft and one could sleep in the cars or on the ground, as one preferred. It was warm and the rugs and shawls would be covering enough.

They ran the cars out of the road to a convenient clearing. Henrietta got out the basket, shawls were spread on the ground in the light of the two cars and they prepared to make the best of things.

"This is like old times," declared the general genially; "a night on the march, far out on the prairies, not a thing in sight, not a sound but a coyote or the cry of a wolf."

"And Indians," said Henrietta, "hiding back of the nearest hillock, creeping up on you unawares."

Billy glanced behind her at the woods and wished they had chosen a more open place to dine.

"Yes," agreed the general cheerfully, "or down in some southern swamp, with the Johnny Rebs stealing through the bushes."

"Oh, please," begged Billy. "What's the use of telling about things creeping up on you?"

And she glanced again at the bit of wood she could see in the light of the lamps. Far in the west the moon was sinking and here and there a star twinkled between the rolling clouds. A thunder-head was now and then revealed distinctly by flashes of distant lightning, and thunder rumbled ominously in the sultry night. A whip-poorwill called steadily and once a bat on graceful wing flew by in the eery light.

The general laughed. "That was living in those days, Billy," he said. "A man was a man and not an office automaton, a dimes saving bank."

Sheriff's Sale.

By virtue of a certified copy of a decree and order of sale, to me directed from the Clerk's office of the Rush Circuit Court, in a cause wherein the Rush County Mortgage Loan Association, Trustee, is plaintiff and Claude Fore, et al., are defendants, requiring me to make the sum of two thousand, one hundred and sixty dollars ($2,160), with interest on said decree and costs, I will expose at public sale, to the highest bidder, on Saturday, the 8th Day of February, 1913, between the hours of 10 o'clock a. m. and 4 o'clock p. m., of said day, at the door of the Court House, of said Rush County, Indiana, the rents and profits of a term not exceeding seven years, of the following described real estate, to-wit:

Lot numbered four (4), in New Salem, as platted by Moses Thompson, also commencing at the southeast corner of said lot and running thence southwest with the east line of said lot extending two (2) rods; thence in a northwesterly direction with the south line of said lot five (5) rods; thence north to the southwest corner of said lot; thence to the place of beginning.

If such rents and profits will not sell for a sufficient sum to satisfy said decree, interest and costs, I will, at the same time and place, expose at public sale the fee simple of said real estate, or so much thereof as may be sufficient to discharge said decree, interest and costs.

Said sale will be made without any relief whatever from valuation or appraisalment laws.

NO ABATEMENT OF FLOOD CONDITIONS

Distress in Lower Ohio Valley Is Acute.

Evansville, Ind., Jan. 18.—According to Al Brand, government forecaster, relief from the flood conditions in the lower Ohio river valley, which have driven hundreds of families from their homes, may not come before the end of next week. The slow decline at Cincinnati and Louisville, coupled with the steady rain throughout the lower valley, will probably keep the river here at its present level until next Wednesday or Thursday, and then the rate of recession will be very slow.

Active relief among the victims of the flood is being continued by the city authorities. Back water is covering new districts and an increasingly vexatious problem is the water poured into hitherto dry territory by sewers. The upper residence district along Parrett and Minor streets, in this city, which has been protected by a levee in other high waters, is now inundated from sewer overflow. Sewers are making more trouble in the remote Washington and Linwood avenue sections, where cellars are filled and scores of furnaces have been put out of commission. There is no abatement in the flood distress in the upper district around Rockport and Cannelton, where rail communication is abandoned and telephone communication is conducted with difficulty. Telephones across the river have been swept down by floating drift.

Mayor Heilman said he had no further suggestion to offer in regard to state aid beyond that the state might meet the cost of patrol boats and men to take care of them. The city is able, he believes, to handle the food question.

FIVE PRISONERS GET AWAY

Daring Jail Delivery Was Accomplished at Terre Haute.

Terre Haute, Ind., Jan. 18.—Five prisoners escaped from jail by letting themselves down to the kitchen floor in a food elevator after beating Larry O'Donnell, jailer; John McNulty, his assistant, and the latter's wife, who is assistant matron. They were led by the so-called Gentleman Burglar, Albert Brenton, who was awaiting transfer to the penitentiary for a sentence of from two to twenty years, on a plea of guilty to burglary. The other four are George and Albert Green, John Howard and Harry Johnson. The two latter were recaptured.

PUJO COMMITTEE COMPLETES QUIZ

Has Gone as Far as Its Warrant Goes.

READY TO PREPARE REPORT

That Some Drastic Recommendations Will Be Made to Congress as the Result of Searching Investigation Is Established by Circumstances Which Have Cropped Out During Progress of the Extended Inquiry.

Washington, Jan. 18.—So far as stock exchanges and clearing houses are concerned, the Pujo investigating committee of the house has completed its investigations. It has also gone practically as far as it is able, under its present authority, in the investigation of the concentration of money and credit. The life of the committee will expire with the ending of the present session of congress and the investigators are going to submit a report before that occurs.

From the development thus far it is already certain that the committee will recommend the incorporation of all stock exchanges and clearing houses. It has also been clearly indicated in the public record that the committee will seek to effect a regulation of the New York stock exchange through the power wielded by the federal government in control of the mails and through federal supervision of telegraphic communication as interstate commerce.

The rules which the committee has in mind have been indicated from time to time in the course of the hearings. One of these is a prohibition against stock manipulation, the giving of buying and selling orders by the same person at about the same time, and other practices resorted to in the creation of artificial prices.

When it comes to recommendations affecting the concentration of banking resources, the record of the proceedings discloses pretty clearly the suggestions which the committee has in mind. One of these is that full publicity shall be given to assets of national banks with exception of loans. As to this recommendation opinion has differed among bankers. Jacob H. Schiff was in favor of the fullest publicity, while George F. Baker thought it detrimental to the business of the country.

The question of minority representation on the boards of financial as well as interstate commerce corporations is another suggestion almost certain to be adopted by the committee. The committee will adjourn to Feb. 25 to consider its report. Some further formal documentary proof may then be introduced to be embodied in the report.

Must Know How to Read.

Washington, Jan. 18.—The house has adopted the conference report on the immigration bill, which provides that all aliens seeking admission to the United States shall be subjected to a test of their ability to read the language or dialect with which they are supposed to be familiar.

HE HAD GOOD AUTHORITY

Dictionary Warrants Use of the Term "Chicken" Applied to Girls.

Hagerstown, Md., Jan. 18.—Blaine Varner, a young man visiting here, was brought before the police magistrate at headquarters on complaint of a young woman, who charged that he had called her "chicken."

After he had been scolded severely he was asked what he had to say for himself.

"Well, your honor," he said, "I think that I was entirely within my rights when I called her a chicken. Look in Webster's dictionary and I think you will find I'm right."

The magistrate looked and this was what he found: "Chicken—A young person; a child; especially a young woman; a maiden."

Confronted by this evidence the magistrate grunted and discharged the prisoner.

Policewoman For South Bend.

South Bend, Ind., Jan. 18.—A woman, who must wear a star and carry a club, is to be appointed a member of the South Bend police department. The move will be made at the instigation of the Florence Crittenden Circle, to remedy the street walking and flirting evil in the streets. This new member of the police force will also be expected to look after the public dance halls and wineries. She will receive $75 a month. A number of applications for the position have been received.

Whisky Leads to Shooting.

Bedford, Ind., Jan. 18.—Following a quarrel near Stonington over the division of a jug of whisky, Edward Jackson shot Henry Leatherman twice near the heart. Leatherman is in a serious condition. The authorities are searching for Jackson.

Employer of Brandt, Whose Sentence Excited New York.

FOLK BRANDT LEAVES PRISON UNDER PAROLE

Senator Nelson Will Give Him a Fresh Start.

New York, Jan. 18.—Folke Engel Brandt has been pardoned by Governor Sulzer. Just twenty-four hours after Brandt entered Albany as a convict with twenty-four years of a thirty-year prison sentence to serve he left the city a free man in company of Senator Nelson of Minnesota. Senator Nelson offered to take Brandt to Washington and then to send him to Minnesota, where he will secure employment for him.

Brandt's pardon was conditional. In return for his freedom he promised Governor Sulzer he would not appear in public, on the stage or otherwise, in connection with the case; that he would not seek to gain notoriety by writing the history of the case or discuss it in public for pay or other considerations. Brandt also assured the governor that whatever statements he ever had made reflecting on the character of any person connected with the case are absolutely false and he will never repeat them.

If Brandt violates either of these conditions the governor says his pardon will be revoked and he will be remanded to prison to serve out his term. Brandt was a one time valet in the employ of Mortimer L. Schiff, the New York banker, on whose complaint he was convicted of larceny.

CHARLES H. HYDE DISBARRED

Quick Action in Case of New York's Former Controller.

New York, Jan. 18.—Charles H. Hyde was disbarred by the appellate division of the supreme court on the record of his conviction of bribery in spite of Supreme Court Justice Goff's doubt on some of his own rulings and desire for the opinion of a higher court. It is the first case on record in which such speedy action was taken.

The day after Hyde's conviction the bar association was requested to act, and the motion for his disbarment was made on the first day thereafter on which the appellate division could hear it. In spite of Hyde's pending appeal he did not oppose the motion for his disbarment.

Stabbed Playmate in Abdomen.

Jasonville, Ind., Jan. 18.—While playing, Glenn Markle aged twelve, son of Mr. and Mrs. Otis Markle of this city, and Meredith Wollam, aged twelve, of this city, became engaged in a quarrel. The Markle boy stabbed the other in the abdomen with a pocketknife, cutting a gash two inches deep and four inches wide. The Wollam boy is in a critical condition and may die.

Suicide of Prof. Danse.

Laporte, Ind., Jan. 18.—A telegram received here brought news of the suicide at Iola, N. M., of Prof. L. O. Danse, fifty-five years old, formerly of Laporte. The telegram indicates that the deed was committed while Danse was suffering from temporary aberration. He had gone west with his family to ranch in New Mexico to improve his health.

SECOND BALLOT WAS NECESSARY

Poincare Lacked Six Votes On the First.

NEW PRESIDENT OF FRANCE

Premier in the Cabinet of President Fallieres Elevated to First Place in the Republic After Stormy Scenes in the National Assembly Assembled at Versailles, Violence Being Narrowly Averted.

Versailles, France, Jan. 18.—On the second ballot, Premier Poincare was elected president of France by the national assembly. He will succeed President Clement Armand Fallieres, whose head of the cabinet he was.

There were stormy scenes during and between the ballots. The activities of M. Clemenceau, former premier of France, nearly resulted in the arrangement of a duel between him and President Poincare, but the trouble was adjusted during the proceedings of the national assembly after M. Poincare had sent seconds to M. Clemenceau.

The result of the second ballot was: Poincare, 483; Jules Pams, 296; Marie Edouard Vaillant, 69. There were several other candidates who drew a handful of votes among them. It required 435 to be elected.

Pams, minister of agriculture in Poincare's cabinet until the morning of the election, when he resigned to announce himself a candidate for the presidency, was Poincare's principal opponent and did better on the first ballot than on the second. The first ballot brought this result: Poincare, 429; Pams, 327; Vaillant, 63; Deschanel, 18; Ribot, 16; Bourgeois, 4; Millerand, 2; Anton Dubost, 1; Mascrand, 2; Rochefort, 1.

Marquis Albert De Dion, a Conservative, started the excitement as soon as Senator Dubost, president of the senate, had called the convention to order. The galleries at this time were uncomfortably jammed, but the women, who formed by far the larger part of the audience, did not seem to mind the squeezing of their plumage, nor did the men.

The marquis shouted, "We protest!"

At this the senators and deputies broke into loud cheers, calling on him to keep still, and the galleries split their voices in encouragement of both sides.

"We protest," continued the marquis after the noise had slightly subsided, "against the election of a president by parliament. The people should have this power."

When he had finished the uproar broke out anew. There were hisses and catcalls.

"Down with the empire," became the slogan of the Socialist members.

"Long live the republic," shouted the Republicans. Men stood on their chairs and shouted until their faces turned purple.

At the height of this preliminary excitement there was a disturbance in the hallway of the palace, and a number of guards were seen struggling with an unknown. Suddenly the man whipped a revolver from his pocket.

"That this election should take place is not proper," he shouted, menacing with his revolver. The weapon was taken away from him and it was seen that it was not loaded, but this added to the strain upon the feelings of the electors, and after that the senators and deputies were on edge to shout at the least provocation.

The police made extraordinary precautions for the election and 2,000 of them were brought to Versailles from other cities. The crowds which came down from Paris were excited and eager, and turned this sedate town topsy-turvy. Military police were stationed along the railroad at intervals of 100 yards all the way from Paris to Versailles, ready for any disturbances, and the garrison was kept in readiness. Troops of all sorts were stationed at central points or sent through the city on patrol.

Poincare was indignant over a letter he had received from Georges Clemenceau, formerly premier. M. Poincare said he had been insulted in the letter, and he appointed Aristide Briand, minister of justice, and L. L. Klotz, minister of finance, to act as his seconds in arranging an affair of honor so that M. Poincare might blot out the stain put upon his honor by M. Clemenceau.

When the two principals arrived at Versailles M. Briand and M. Klotz called on M. Clemenceau. M. Clemenceau explained the alleged insult. It seems that it was not an insult at all. Thus was the duel averted and the incident is considered closed. One other incident has not yet closed so happily. Deputy A. Moncie and Paul Boncour, former minister of labor, got into a row in the corridors and seconds have been appointed.

This was the tenth election under the third republic, and the third to require two ballots. The others required one ballot. M. Fallieres, the retiring president, was elected on one ballot, as was Loubet.

President Poincare takes office on Feb. 18 for a term of seven years. His salary and expense money, paid in advance, amounts to $240,000 a year.

CONNERSVILLE DEFEATS LOCALS

Rushville Five is Outclassed and Loses Game by 42 to 11
Score.

POOR FLOOR WAS A HANDICAP

Superior Team Work Results in Victory — First Half Ends
24 to 9.

The Connersville High School added their second victory of the season when they defeated the Rushville High School at Connersville last night, by a score of 42 to 11. Connersville showed superior team work and goal hitting than the local boys. Meyers and Pinkerton, the two forwards on the Connersville team, had their baskets located and threw goals continually.

Hinkle, for Rushville, was the goal thrower, and Cameron showed up above the rest by his fast floor work. At guards, Roam played a good game and so did Griffin, when taken into consideration the difference in the sizes of Pinkerton and Griffin. "Hank" Webb, center and captain of the local team, was outclassed by Castleman, the colored man who played center. The score at the end of the first half was 24 to 9.

The Connersville "gym" is situated in the basement of the school building, and is nothing but a mere joke compared to the "gym" in our local building. The Graham gymnasium has twice the floor space and the ceiling nearly three times as high as Connersville. Rafters and heating pipes also decorated the walls and ceiling. The local team was greatly handicapped by these disadvantages.

The Rushville team will give Connersville a good drubbing when they play a return game here February 28th. Rushville will take on New Castle next Friday night here.

The line-up and summary of the game:

Meyers	Forward	Hinkle
Pinkerton	Forward	Cameron
Castleman	Center	Webb
Pohlman	Guard	Griffin
Steele	Guard	Roam

Field goals: Meyers, 9; Pinkerton, 5; Castleman, 5; Hinkle, 4.

Foul goals: Griffin, 3; Castleman, 4.

Referee, Smelser; umpire, Bridges.

COMING BACK TO INDIANA IN APRIL

Dick Wilson & Son Will Open Public
Training Stable at State Fair Grounds in Spring.

SUCCESSFUL ON THE COAST

The well-known Indiana trainers, Dick Wilson & Son, who have spent several years training and racing on the Pacific Coast, will return to Indiana and on April 1 will open a public training stable at the Indiana State fair grounds, says the Western Horseman. Both of these gentlemen are noted for their ability to prepare and get all of the speed out of a good horse in a race.

Dick Wilson has won every historic stake on the Grand Circuit with the exception of the Transylvania and the Kentucky Futurity, and in those two he has never had a starter. During their residence on the coast they have been exceptionally successful. One of the horses campaigned last year by Wilson & Son was Maurice S., 2:06, which was returned the largest money winning pacer on the Pacific Coast with $7,645 to his credit.

There is no question but that they will be given a warm reception on their return for they have thousands of friends in the State who will be glad to welcome them.

however, it is argued by opponents of the bill would be an abundance of time for the political machine to get firmly organized and in good running order. That machine, it is asserted, would be able to do what it desired at the end of the two-year period, when another legislature had come into existence.

The members of the commission on roads, under the Norris bill, would be the professor of civil engineering at Purdue, the superintendent of the Purdue agricultural extension department, a person named by the Federation of Agricultural Associations, and two persons to be named by the Governor. Thus, it is pointed out, by insuring the appointment of two members of the Purdue faculty, and one representative of a society affiliated with the agricultural extension department of the university, Purdue, by having three of the five members, would at all times be insured of control of the State commission. The power to appoint a State highway engineer would be conferred on this commission, the salary to be fixed by the commission.

The commission, under the Norris bill, would investigate the needs of Indiana bridges and roads and ascertain how needs of the roads are met by existing systems of road and bridge building, maintenance and repair. Power to co-operate with the Purdue extension department as to demonstrations and lectures would be conferred by the bill.

The trustee of any township, upon petition of fifty or more resident freeholders, would issue an order to the county treasurer directing that all taxes assessed on property in the township for highway purposes should be collected in cash. If a remonstrance was signed by a greater number of resident freeholders than had signed the petition, the petitioners would be unsuccessful. When the petition has not been successfully remonstrated against, the bill provides, it becomes the duty of the commission to plan and supervise the execution of the plans for road repair in the township.

The road supervisor under the bill reports to the trustee and obeys the orders given to him through the trustee. The orders to the trustee come from the highway engineer. This officer would be responsible to the Purdue dominated commission. Thus, it has been pointed out, the machine's ramifications would extend out in every direction from Purdue. The trustees and road supervisors of the state, it has been argued, would become corporals and privates in the company commanded by the captains from Purdue.

The failure of the bill to provide definitely for any real road improvement and its action in putting the road question in the hands of Purdue for experimental and investigating purposes, is being assailed.

TO CHEAPEN CHOLERA CURE

Bill in Legislature Would Help Farmers Combat Disease.

Farmers and especially swine breeders, will be much interested in the Deck bill, No. 110 pending in the legislature in Indianapolis. This bill calls for $25,000 for the maintenance and enlargement of the plant at Purdue University for the preparation of vaccine serum and blood for use in combating hog cholera in the State. It is provided that the products of the laboratory shall not be sold outside Indiana, and the intent of the bill is to cheapen the cost of hog cholera cures to the Indiana farmers.

TO SHORTEN SEASON.

An amendment shortening the open season for squirrels shooting was introduced in the legislature in Indianapolis by Representative Brannaman. It fixes the open season for squirrels at from Sept. 1 to Jan. 1, instead of from June 1 to Jan. 1.

HAPPY DAYS OF YOUTH RECALLED

his excellent record during his term as lieutenant governor.

T. M. Green, a former student, told the audience "What I did not get at the State university." He prefaced his remarks by saying that some people got more than they deserved, referring to the first speaker. Mr. Green was very much interested in history and literature and went to I. U. to get what was then the best course in the country. He exhibited the course, outline and library of the history course. It was a copy of Weber's "Outlines of Universal History." Mr. Green did not speak of this in a critical way, but showed how the school had always kept abreast of the schools, and that now the courses of history and literature were the best in the country. He hoped that the day of niggardly appropriations to the school was a thing of the past and that the present legislature would do their whole duty and privilege.

Miss Henrietta Coleman spoke of the great advances in art, and hoped that all might know of Prof. Brooks' excellent work. She very pleasantly told of her experiences in the I. U. and recounted some huge joke upon Dr. Lowell Green and John H. Kiplinger who were in school the same time she was.

O. L. Raber, teacher of Science in the high school, was called upon without notice and preparation, but was equal to the occasion and did himself proud with witty and wise statements of the value of the school to the State.

Prof. J. M. LaFollette, professor of Law in the I. U., was the faculty representative present. He brought hearty greetings from the faculty and students of the school, and spoke earnestly of the advance the school had made and of the growth of good will to the State university by non-State school men. He made a remarkable impression of the worth of the school to the State.

The Misses Nelle Baldwin, Belle Gregg and Pearl Kitchen, the committee on decorations, were complimented upon their good work and Mrs. Lenora Alexander Blackledge (1897) made a motion to thank the committees who had arranged for the meeting.

The chair appointed B. F. Miller and F. J. Hall to prepare a statement of the needs of the University, which will be published.

GOES TO MIDDLETOWN, OHIO

Rosie Brocks Receives Promotion
From Western Union.

Miss Rosie A. Brock, who has been in charge of the local office of the Western Union Telegraph Company, for the past thirteen months, will leave shortly for Middletown, Ohio, where she will be assistant manager in the office there. The change comes as a promotion to Miss Brock. During her stay here she has made many friends, both from a business and social standpoint. Earl Roscoe of Vincennes, Ind., will succeed Miss Brock in the local office.

Mrs. L. H. Doughty, who has been very ill at the home of her mother, Mrs. J. C. Alger, and Maudie L. Rogers, who has also been ill there, are some better.

Tri-County Event to be Held in Clarksburg Has an Attractive Premium List.

RULES ADOPTED FOR CONTEST

Great preparation are being made for the tri-county corn show to be held in Clarksburg, January 31 and February 1. The committee in charge urges that the corn to be exhibited be selected now. Already over thirty industries in Indiana, Ohio and Illinois have contributed premiums, valued at $250.

The rules, adopted by the State Corn Growers' Association, which require that the corn exhibited shall have been raised by the contestants or tenants, will govern the grading. Two classes are open to Rush, Decatur and Franklin counties. Six classes are open to Clinton and Fugit townships, Decatur county, Salt-creek and Posey townships, Franklin county and Richland and Anderson townships, this county.

MANILLA TEAM DEFEATED

Shelbyville "Scrubs" Won by Score of 26 to 9.

The Manilla high school basketball team was defeated last night by the second team of the Shelbyville high school, 26 to 9. The game was hard fought from start to finish but a lack of practice gave Shelbyville the game. The game was played at Shelbyville as a curtain raiser for the Morristown-Shelbyville high school game. Shelbyville continued its march to the state championship, defeating Morristown 84 to 8.
